New Course for Spring 2017
Center for Civic Leadership in partnership with The Philanthropy Lab

LEAD 340
Philanthropy in Theory and Practice

Students will gain experience and knowledge about philanthropy, grant-making, and the nonprofit sector by selecting nonprofit organization’s actual proposals to award up to $10,000.

Taught by a Houston expert in philanthropy and grants, Dr. Vida Avery, this course will provide students history and context for philanthropy and the role of giving in addressing social issues. This course is offered through an exciting partnership with The Philanthropy Lab, which will provide funding for students to grant selected nonprofit organizations awards.

There will be a ceremony and celebration at the end of the semester where students will present their nonprofit organizations with the awards. This course will be an experience-based learning opportunity with genuine impact for our community organizations.
