- Quadrant 1 – items that need to be dealt with immediately.
- Quadrant 2 – items that are important but do not require your immediate attention, and need to be planned for.
- Quadrant 3 – items which should be minimized or eliminated.
- Quadrant 4 – items that don’t have to be done anytime soon, perhaps add little to no value and also should be minimized or eliminated. TIME WASTERS!
Quadrant 1 – Urgent and Important

Examples:

- Family Emergencies
- Real, hard deadlines for important projects

Quadrant 2 – Not Urgent And Important

Your overall health is something you may take for granted today, and may not see urgency in dealing with it – but long term, we know it’s of supreme importance. There are some other important, yet not urgent, things that fall into this quadrant as well:

- Exercise
- Reviewing your career path
- Maintaining relationships with family/friends

Quadrant 3 – Urgent and Not Important

My favorite examples, though I could have picked more -
Other “Urgent” tasks that add little to no value

- Phone calls that are off topic
- Email that you have to reply to right away or it loses value (“Do you want some donuts? I have some in my office!”)

Quadrant 4 – Not Urgent and Not Important

- Mindless web browsing
- FACEBOOK
- Too much television/channel surfing for the sake of channel surfing
- Reading lots of random RSS feeds (no matter how fast you may read them)
- Junk and low value email
